

On 24 April 2004, a gorgeous sun-drenched Autumn day, two local residents, Greg and Patrece Ward (nee Levet) tied the knot in front of family and friends in the beautiful surrounds of the chapel. It was a gorgeous wedding, with the rustic essence of the chapel, the perfumed air and the beautiful vows. A number of both friends and family travelled from distant places to attend, and were soon charmed by the tranquil simplicity of both the chapel and the breathtaking views.

The cemetery grounds had been meticulously groomed and some guests wandered around looking at the gravestones out of general interest or searching for family connections. Steeped in Albertland history, there are many early settlers and descendants buried in the cemetery, of great significance to Patrece whose ancestors were also Albertlanders and settled in the neighbouring area in 1862.

Greg and Patrece's wedding was memorable having the service at Minniesdale Chapel.

Have you thought how wonderful it would be to hold a wedding at Minniesdale Chapel? This is the perfect venue as two local couples can attest to. We share their wedding days.

Wellsford residents Morgan & Katie Lee (nee Coop) were never in doubt as to where they would be married. The pioneering charm and history, especially significant for Katie (an Albertland descendent) and the picturesque location of Minniesdale Chapel made it an easy decision as to where they would hold their wedding service.

On 17 March 2018, on a stunningly warm sunny 'paradise in the north' day, Morgan and Katie said their vows at the altar with their family and close friends in attendance. The chapel sparkled and the loving essence of their vows permeated the air. It was a beautiful occasion and guests felt part of a very special celebration.

Many photos were taken outside of the bridal party and guests, with the Oruawharo River tributary glistening as a backdrop to this very scenic location.

Morgan and Katie were both thrilled at how their wedding service went and said the Chapel played its part to perfection with its enchanting and old world feel. Their wedding added to the Chapel's long list of local folk who have married there.
